DESCRIPTION.

This application is focused on bringing a unique visual experience to calorie counting. It's main goal is to educate the user on how many calories he has to intake to maintain, lose, or gain weight. Additionally it will also display how many grams of protein and carbs the user has to intake depending on the their main focus.

You will be able to keep a history of your weight as you use the app. It will notify you if your calorie intake is far lower than it should be. The app will allow the user to increase or decrease the amount of calories he wants to burn a day. That will be asked at the very start of the morning with an alert in your notifications.
